The conditions are in place for the country's battery energy storage market to expand at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 20% to 30%, as Holu Solar's Sophia Costa explained. From ESS News Brazilian energy suppliers raised the red flag in September 2024, signaling a rise in electricity costs.

Brazil is set to conduct its first auction for adding batteries and storage systems to the national power grid, as reported by Reuters. The auction, to take place in June 2025, will include 300MW energy capacity purchase that could drive an estimated $450m in investments from winning bidders.

A study by Brazilian consultancy Greener has indicated that the country installed 269 MWh of energy storage capacity in 2024, growth of 29% from 2023. Demand for battery energy storage system (BESS) components grew 89% in Brazil from 2023 to 2024 and most of the resulting systems are likely to be.

The auction, to take place in June 2025, will include 300MW energy capacity purchase that could drive an estimated $450m in investments from winning bidders, according to consultants Oliver Wyman. The company noted that operational batteries and storage systems could have cut the use of fossil.

Lower battery prices and increases to intermittent power generation could boost battery energy storage systems (BESS) in Brazil, reaching roughly 7.2GW of installed capacity by 2040 or higher with new regulations, according to a study by Brazilian consulting firm Clean Energy Latin America (CELA).

Due to frequent power outages, Brazil plans to invest 26 billion reais (about 26.3 billion yuan) in developing the energy storage market to address power supply shortages. Although Brazil has abundant solar resources, especially its ample sunlight conditions that are very suitable for solar power. Will Brazil conduct the first energy storage auction?
