Japanese home energy storage power supply direct sales

Overview

How is Japan's energy storage landscape changing?

Japan's energy storage landscape is shifting, pushed by household demand, corporate ESG mandates, and domestic battery manufacturing. The residential lithium-ion market, projected to grow at a CAGR of 33.9% through 2030, remains one of the fastest-expanding segments.

What is Japan's energy storage policy?

As policy, technology, and decarbonization goals converge, Japan is positioning energy storage as a critical link between its climate targets and energy reliability. Japan's energy storage policy is anchored by the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry (METI), which outlined its ambitions in the 6th Strategic Energy Plan, adopted in 2021.

How big is Japan's battery storage market?

In the commercial space, Japan's battery storage market was valued at USD 593.2 million in 2023 and is projected to reach USD 4.15 billion by 2030. While commercial installations currently dominate revenues, industrial adoption is expected to scale faster. Utility-scale storage is also gaining ground.

Will Canadian Solar start selling home storage batteries in Japan?

SHENZHEN, China -- Major solar panel manufacturer Canadian Solar plans to begin Japanese sales of home storage batteries in 2024, tapping into demand for countermeasures against power outages from earthquakes and other natural disasters. Canadian Solar is a global player in solar panels, with an estimated 15% market share in Japan.

Does Japan's energy storage rollout face structural headwinds?

Despite strong policy signals, Japan's energy storage rollout faces deep structural headwinds. The nation's split-grid architecture—50 Hz in the east and 60 Hz in the west—limits electricity transfer and complicates nationwide deployment.

Does Tokyo Gas have a battery energy storage system?

Tokyo Gas is also participating in the Japanese utility-scale battery energy storage system (BESS) market, signing a 20-year tolling offtake deal with Australian developer Eku Energy for a forthcoming 30MW/120MWh project.
