Lanjun energy storage battery

Overview

Currently, Ruipu Lanjun plans to promote research and development of 500-600Ah high-capacity energy storage batteries to improve system integration efficiency and reduce costs; accelerate the application of semi-solid state and solid-state battery technology in low-altitude aircraft, etc., and have now reached an eVTOL energy solution cooperation with Yufeng Future; and lay out lithium manganese phosphate batteries to further improve energy density and low temperature performance with the advantages of high voltage and low cost.
